DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 28.

NEWS FROM THE FAR WEST.—We find the following intelligence in the Galenian, published at Galena, in Illinois.

"The Ky. Gazette, the oldest paper west of the mountains, and, for the last four years, edited by G. J. Trotter, Esq., has recently passed into the hands of T. J. Pew, Esq., under whose editorial superintendence it will in future be conducted.—No change will take place in the politics of the Gazette."

This statement is incorrect.—The Kentucky Gazette was not the first paper published "west of the mountains." The Pittsburgh Gazette has that priority; and, some time after it was established, Mr. Scull, the proprietor, sold to Mr. Bradford the materials with which the Kentucky Gazette was first published.

THE MAIL—ONCE MORE.—Again we have no papers from any place east of Harrisburg—our readers, therefore, need not look for much news in our paper to day. We do wish that these failures could be corrected. We have observed that these failures occur, very frequently, on Thursday mornings. The Philadelphia morning papers of Monday are due here on Wednesday. Why this failure should occur on Thursday, we cannot even guess.—The mail which leaves Philadelphia on Sunday, arrives here on Tuesday night, and is open for delivery on Wednesday morning—and the mail of Monday should, and generally does, arrive here on Wednesday, and is open for delivery on Thursday morning.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL.—We received, some days ago, a letter, addressed to ourselves and a number of other persons, without respect to party, as will be seen in another part of our paper, requesting the co-operation of the citizens of Pittsburgh in an application for aid to this important work. After consultation with several of those addressed, and others, it was determined to call a meeting for Wednesday next; and a notice, copied from one given over at Washington, is this day published, for Wednesday next, at 10 o'clock, A. M. The other papers in the city are requested to copy this notice.

We are informed that the model of the Western Penitentiary, according to the new plan, will be exhibited, at the Exchange Hotel, on Friday and Saturday next, after which days it will be sent to Harrisburgh.—Persons, who are desirous of seeing this plan of the improvements now making, will have an opportunity of inspection on either of those days.—This plan embraces, we are told, many valuable alterations, which will add greatly to the perfection of the cells, and will probably form the most secure ever constructed in this or any other country. It is said that Mr. Haviland, the architect engaged in this work, is also employed in erecting two other prisons, on similar principles; and we are informed that he is also preparing models and drawings for the Commissioners, appointed by the British Government, to examine the public prisons in the United States.

It is expected that convicts will be transferred into one new section of the Allegheny prison in April next.

Congress meets on Monday next, the 2d of December.

The General Assembly of Pennsylvania meets on Tuesday, the 3d of December.

A CARD.

We, whose names are hereunto subscribed, have been passengers on board the steam boat Statesman, on her passage from Louisville to Pittsburgh. Some of us have made the entire trip; others, that part of it from Cincinnati and Maysville, so far as Wheeling. On the way, a slight accident happened to the force pump, by which a short delay was occasioned; but we deem it due to the captain and officers of the boat to say that they were prompt and incessant in their exertions to repair the injury and hasten our passage.—The accommodations have been of the first order; and the polite attentions bestowed on the passengers, by the officers and attendants, meet our highest commendation and thanks—which are respectfully tendered.

It will be seen from the above that the amount of Tolls realized, within the fiscal year, is $151-419 69. Last year the sum taken, in the same period, was $50,909 57—and from that time until the 1st of January about 5,000 dollars additional was collected, making in all upwards of 55,000 dollars—The present year up to this date, shows nearly 165,000 dollars accounted for, at the Treasury, and a further sum of 30,000 will easily be realized before the first of January, making in all, 195,000 dollars, more than three times the amount collected in 1832.

The above facts and figures are conclusive evidence to the friends of Internal Improvement in this quarter, that the present system is one of sound policy, and will yield in a few years, a sufficiency of revenue to pay the interest upon the money borrowed to complete it. The tolls for the next year, may safely be set down at from 450, to 550,000 dollars.

BANK OF THE UNITED STATES

The Branch in this city was yesterday called upon by the Manhattan Company, with a draft from the Treasury Department for $500,000, which had been in its possession since about the 10th of October, to be used at its discretion, to embarrass either the Bank of the U. States or the merchants doing business with it, as might best suit the convenience or subserve the purposes of the Right Honorable the MARQUIS OF CARMAERTHEN, (principal owner of the Bank.)

We learn that on the presentation of the Treasury draft at the Bank, by his Lordship's agent, he was politely informed that the Branch was prepared to pay the draft in bills of his Lordship's Company, to the amount of nearly $300,000; and that the balance, something over $200,000, would be paid by drafts upon the local banks, or in specie. He was also informed that if his Lordship thought proper to present another draft of $500,000, it could also be met by drafts upon the local Banks, with the exception of about $100,000. At this information, his Lordship's agent looked somewhat astonished; and, after scratching his head, and giving other signs of confusion, he very peremptorily refused to touch either the drafts upon the local banks, or the specie; but requested that the amount of the Treasury draft might be carried to the credit of his Lordship until he could make a more critical examination into his Lordship's secret instructions on this unexpected feature of the business! This request was quietly complied with, and accordingly the MARQUIS OF CARMAERTHEN, &c. &c. &c. was duly credited under the style and appellation of the "Manhattan Company," with the amount of the Treasury draft.

Thus, then, has commenced the war in this city on the part of the Government against the Bank of the U. States and the merchant; and it is as well perhaps, that in such a disreputable business, they should have employed an institution owned principally by foreigners, and exclusively controlled by the cashier, in consequence of his holding the proxies of the Right Honorable the Marquis of Carmærthen, &c. &c. &c.—When General Jackson placed his veto upon the Bill rechartering the Bank of the U. States, the principal reason which he assigned for so doing, was, that Foreigners had one fifth of its stock. On that stock, however, they have no vote, and of course exercise no control over the institution; and yet in the face of this alleged reason for vetoing the Bank Bill, we find the Manhattan Company in this city selected to receive the Public Deposits, when it is well known that a majority of its stock is not only owned by foreigners, but voted upon by the Cashier, who holds the proxies, and acts as the special agent of the Right Honorable and very Noble Marquis of Carmærthen, and in his name and through his means, governs and directs the Institution according to the will and pleasure of the Noble Marquis.

The charge, urged by the Collar Presses, that the Bank of the U. States is oppressing the Money market, is utterly without foundation; as will apper by the following statement:

|---|---|
| The Discount line, on the 9th Oct. stood at | $6,034,753 |
| Do. do. 18th November, | 5,434,153 |
| Dec. of Discounts, | $600,701 |
| The Treasury Balance, on the 9th October, was | $3,702,667 |
| Do. 18th November, | 1,673,489 |
| Reduction of Treasury Balance, | $2,029,178 |

It is apparent, therefore, that while the Treasury Department has withdrawn from the Branch in this city more than two millions of dollars, to benefit the institution owned by the Right Honorable the Marquis of Carmærthen, and its associciate Pet Banks, the Branch has only curtailed its discounts six hundred thousand dollars; and this too, when, as they well knew, the Pet Banks each have in their possession a check for $500,000, with instructions to use it whenever, by so doing, they can benefit themselves, or embarrass the Branch! Without enquiring where the Secretary of the Treasury finds authority for the exercise of this high handed and most corrupt discretion, we think that these facts must be conclusive with an intelligent community, of the utter falsity of the charges, that the Bank of the United States is oppressing the community by an unnecessary and uncalled for reduction of its discounts.—Courier & Enquirer.

The Comptroller of the Treasury has ordered that the duties on Goat's hair Camlets, imported subsequently to the 3d of March, 1833 be refunded, and that importations of this article which may hereafter be made, be admitted free of duty. The Comptroller has also decided that the duty of 30 per cent. imposed by the act of 27th April 1816, on hats of silk, remains unaltered.—Boston Post.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE, &c.

The Philadelphia Society for Alleviating the Miseries of Public Prisons, have had occasion to lament the irregularities which sometimes take place in the commitment of prisoners. Justices of the Peace, in the exercise of this highly important part of their jurisdiction, are apt, inadvertently, to overlook the course of proceeding which ought to be pursued by them. Prisoners are often sent to gaol, without having their offences stated in the warrant of commitment, without having the time of their confinement specified, where it ought to be fixed, or without stating that the object is for trial before the court having jurisdiction of the crime. Evils hence are produced which unnecessarily aggravate the penalty of imprisonment. Not only is the period of confinement rendered vague, where by law it should be fixed and certain, but it is made to depend in a degree on the will of the magistrate. The evils alluded to, have been greatly relieved by the benevolent attention of the Court of Quarter Sessions to the subject. During the last summer, a list of prisoners was examined every Wednesday, and such as had been improperly committed were promptly discharged. These discharges have amounted to as many as sixty three in a day. The Prison Society, considering the object entirely within the scope of their association, resolved to place before the magistrates a brief exposition of the law connected with this important matter. They therefore procured the opinion of their counsel, which is published below. The suggestion of an application to the Presiding Judges of the Criminal Courts has been adopted, and Judge King, with his usual promptness and intelligence, at once introduced into his charge to the grand jury, remarks and explanations instructive to the magistrates, and calculated to prevent a continuance in the practice which was complained of.

Justices of the Peace and Aldermen possess an extensive, but a limited jurisdiction. The nature of their authority is fixed by established principles, and does not depend upon their own discretion. Their office is an important one, and the duties which it prescribes, are such as deeply concern the public. As there is no limit to the number of Justices, they are often multiplied to a degree which renders it improbable that all of them should possess unerring judgments, or extensive knowledge. Sir Edward Coke remarks that it is an office of which "the whole Christian World hath not the like, if it be duly exercised." The due exercise of the office consists in a conformity to the plain principles of the law, and to well understood and approved usage. It would be contrary to both, for them to commit an individual to prison, or place him under any restraint whatever, unless he is charged with a specific offence, or unless there is reason to suppose that he is about to break the peace. In the former case, they either commit him for trial, or (if the offence be within their own cognizance as respects both the infliction of punishment, and the preliminary hearing) they judge of his guilt, and pass upon him the sentence of condemnation, which is, in such cases, provided by statute. In the latter case, they exercise the power of preventive justice, which they enjoy as conservators of the peace, by compelling to give security; and, in the absence of such security, and for the want of it merely, they commit him to prison. Except in these instances, they have no right to deprive any one of his liberty. When they exercise this power, it is done by means of a commitment, in which the offence ought to be stated with reasonable precision, or the commitment is irregular.

A warrant of arrest, which, for the most part, precedes the commitment, cannot agreeably to the constitution be issued, without "probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation." This "probable cause" is some act which has been done, or is apprehended, and it must thus exist and be stated in order to authorize the warrant. How then should the commitment, to which the warrant is only preliminary, omit the "probable cause;" or, in other words, the offence which has occasioned it? If the commitment be vague or indescriptive of the crime, the keeper of the prison could not return an adequate reason for the detention, in case a habeas corpus should be issued by a judge; neither could the judge himself determine whether the matter was within the jurisdiction of the magistrate. Dalton, (page 552,) states that "The Justices of the Peace, which shall send any prisoner to the jail, ought to show in their mittimus the cause of the commitment, to the end it may appear whether such prisoner be bailable or no."—It is thus clear, for various reasons, not less than from established law, that the cause for the commitment should distinctly appear upon the face of it.

It may sometimes happen that the justice cannot complete the examination at the return of a warrant, and then he may direct the party to be detained in custody until another opportunity. But the period of such detention must be reasonable. It was decided, in one case, (Seavage vs. Tateham, Cro. Eliz. 829,) that the time of the detainer ought not to exceed three days. This, however, might be governed by circumstances.

Where a person is charged with an indictable offence, the magistrate, if he commit at all, must (except in the case just alluded to, of a postponed hearing,) commit for trial. In other cases he must commit for a specific time. These other cases are such as the law has placed either entirely within his own discretion, (as, for "profane swearing," "drunkenness," and "breach of the Lord's day," where he inflicts a fine, and, if necessary, sends the offender to prison,) or where he judges of the offence subject to an appeal to a higher tribunal, as in cases of vagrancy. He there commits for a specific time, not exceeding one month; and if the parties conceive themselves aggrieved, their only legal remedy is an appeal to the next Court of Quarter Sessions.

The duty of a Justice of the Peace, when the accused is brought before him, is stated with entire clearness by Lord Hale. (Vol. I, p. 583.) "Lastly, what is to be done after the warrant is served, and when the person accused is brought before the justice thereupon?"

"If there be no cause to commit him found by the justice, on examination of the fact, he may discharge him.

"If the case be bailable, he may bail him.

"If he have no bail, or the case appears not to be bailable, he must commit him."

"And being either bailed or committed, he is not to be discharged till he be convicted or acquitted, or delivered by proclamation."

In the case of a commitment for trial, (as well as for vagrancy) it thus appears that the duty of the Magistrate is ended when he has committed the person to jail. He has nothing more to do with him. If he has erred in a commitment for trial, the error may be corrected by a judge on habeas corpus, and the prisoner may be discharged or bailed. If he has erred in the sentence of a vagrant, it may be corrected by the Court of Quarter Sessions. But in neither case can the examination be made over again by the Magistrate himself. He has a right to settle cases of assault and battery, even after binding over to appear at court. But this is by a special act of Assembly. A similar power being withheld as to all other offences, it is not to be gathered by implication, and it cannot be asserted without an usurpation, on the part of the Magistrate, of authority which is wisely, and to the fullest extent, lodged elsewhere.

A departure from any of the principles which have here been stated, is an illegal act, and if injury be the consequence, it is within the reach of redress. If the wrong be an individual one, an action for damages may be sustained. If it be of a public character, the Magistrate may be indicted, or impeached before the Senate, or removed on the address of both houses of the Legislature. It is scarcely to be supposed, however, that errors would be persevered in, if they were clearly and authoritatively pointed out. If the presiding Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions, and the Recorder of the city, would make these principles topics of occasional remark in their charges to the Grand Jury, there can be no doubt the evils could be prevented from arising, or if already practised, they could be prevented.

September 9, 1833.

A correspondent of the Washington Globe,—presumed to be the officer who had the party in charge,—furnishes the annexed account of the tour of Black Hawk and his companions through a part of the United States, last summer.—Balt. Amer., Nov. 23.

BLACK HAWK AND PARTY.

Maj. John Garland of the U. S. Army, received the responsible charge of conducting Black Hawk and party through the United States, and of restoring them to their tribe, with instructions to impress upon them the nature of our institutions, the importance of our Military and Naval Establishments, and proceed to their villages, on the Mississippi, as soon as the objects of the journey could be accomplished. The party consisted of Mac-cut-i-misk-e-ca-cac, or Black Hawk, Nashe-escuck, or Loud Thunder, (his son,) Wa-be-ke-zhick, or the Clear Day, known as the Prophet, Pa-ma-ho. The Fish Fin, the Prophet's brother, Po-we-zhick, The Strawberry, the Prophet's adopted son, Na-pope, or Strong Soup, known as the Warrior. They had been confined at Fort Monroe about ten weeks, when the unexpected intelligence arrived that they were to return to their tribe; although confined within the walls of a garrison, and separated from every sympathizing soul, for nearly a year, they received the intelligence with apparent indifference, without evincing the least emotion, other than a faint smile. It is somewhat remarkable in the Indian character, both at home and abroad, that however much pleased, astonished, or alarmed, they never evince either in their countenance or manner.

They had become much attached to Fort Monroe, which arose, no doubt, from their disappointment; that, instead of a gloomy prison, as they anticipated, they enjoyed agreeable walks, within the walls, and were treated with every kindness and attention. When on their rout home, they often spoke of "that village surrounded with walls," and of the civilities of Col. Eustis, with much feeling and interest. At Norfolk they visited the U. S. ship Delaware, they declared it to be the largest canoe they had ever seen, "it was like a village," they wished to take the "great chief of it by the hand, he must be a brave." When on board the steam boat, from Norfolk to Baltimore, money was missing among some of the passengers; as soon as Black Hawk heard of it, he insisted upon being searched, and all his party. "The white men," he said, "might steal, but he would let all know that the Sacs were honest." At Baltimore, curiosity was on the tip toe, the wharves and vessels were crowded with people; and, in every direction, could be heard vociferated, Black Hawk, Black Hawk. The old man, as well as the rest of the party, were a little intimidated, as they had never encountered such a crowd; they were apprehensive that the multitude and confusion arose from some hostile feeling towards them. It seemed incredible that they were the cause of such an assemblage, and equally as incredible to the old man that he was so important a personage. While there he had an interview with the President; the Hawk was set for a long speech, but from the fatigues which the President had undergone, during the day, he was unable to hear him through.—Black Hawk said, "he had much to say to their 'great father,' as his heart was big." Since their interview with the President, at Washington, they had entertained for him the highest respect. Hearing of him in their own country as "the great counsellor of the Americans," and a "war chief," they expected to meet him in all the parapharnalia of a military chieftain; but, instead of that, they met him as a plain citizen, whose fine, dignified countenance, and gray head, and cordial treatment, won from them their most profound respect and admiration. The ladies of Baltimore honored them with their attentions, and with many a cordial shake of the hand; on them must devolve the responsibility of first convincing Black Hawk's son that he was a "fine looking," "well proportioned," "handsome young man." He had heard those words so often repeated, during his stay, that he very inquisitively asked the interpreter the signification; and was, ever after, not less than an hour and a half at his toilet. The weather being extremely warm they remained a few days at Fort McHenry, where they enjoyed the hospitality of Col. Walbauch, and fresh air, and escaped the crowd, which the landlord, in Baltimore, declared was so great that they had carried away his banisters, windows, and would soon transport his house if they remained. They visited the theatre, circus, and other places of interest. The monument they said was a "Manitou" of the white men, all refused to ascend it, when Na-pope said he would go. Black Hawk then remarked "that they had better all go, as there would be no more danger in ascending, if it should fall, than there would be to remain where they then were," at its base. The monotony of a play was extremely irksome to them; after one of the actors had gone through a labored recitation, the Prophet proposed that he should have a tumbler of water, as his throat must be dry. The circus pleased them more than any amusement in the United States. The fine, and well trained horses, and the dexterity of the females, excited their astonishment and admiration. The Prophet said "they could hunt buffalo better than the Sacs or Foxes."

From the National Intelligencer, November 25.

Our readers have been already informed, that John H. Pleasants (Senior Editor of the Richmond Whig) was arrested, a few days ago, by the Marshal of the United States for the District of Virginia, under authority of an attachment issued from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Columbia, for a contempt by him committed, in not attending the said Court as a witness, after being thereto legally summoned. The cause being brought before Judge Brockenbrough, one of the Judges of the State of Virginia, by a writ of Habeas Corpus, and fully heard, Mr. Pleasants was discharged from the arrest on Wedensday last. Friday's Enquirer contains the Opinion of the Judge in this case at large, of which, and the whole affair, it speaks as follows:

"The Opinion of Judge Brockenbrough, we do not hesitate to say, is luminous, profound, and conclusive. It has given general and undissembled satisfaction. It is a source of much regret, that the U. S. Attorney for the District should have conceived it his duty to insist upon the issuing of this Process."

The Winnebagoes.—They are still prowling about their former haunts—occasionally steal a fat hog, or beef. They burnt about 50 tons of hay, a few days since, belonging to Mr. T. J. Parish, on the head of Blue river, in Iowa county.—Galenian.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | tract of land | containing | 330 acres |
| ½ | do | do | 330 |
| 1 | do | do | 67 |
| 1 | do | do | 7 |
| 1 | do | do | 40 |
| | other lots, containing about | | 6 |

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞ WELCH MEDICAMENTUM. ☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
